THE publication of the prince royal of Sweden's intended marriage with the princess of Denmark, is to be made here next Thursday, with great ceremony.

Naples, April 1. Mount Vesuvius made an eruption last friday evening about seven o'clock, after a slight shock of an earthquake, which was only sensible in the neighbourhood of the mountain. In less than two hours the lava ran from the mouth of the volcano near a mile down the hill on the Portici side: The river of fire divided into two branches, and joined again at the spot where the lava terminated. Saturday the mountain was quiet. Sunday night it was most violently agitated, throwing up red hot stones every minute to an extraordinary height; but the lava has not been so considerable any time as at the first eruption. The mountain being so full of inflamed matter as to run over the mouth, they are apprehensive here of its bursting out lower down, in which case the lavas generally do great damage.

ABOUT three years since a valuable and efficacious STYPTIC, for stopping all external as well as internal bleedings in either sex, was discovered by Mr. THOMAS PEIRCE, near Billiter-Square, Fenchurch-street, LONDON, who immediately caused a number of experiments to be made of its effects on ANIMALS, which being performed in the presence of several gentlemen of the faculty, and proving satisfactory (beyond expectation) to them and other spectators, encouraged him to administer it first to himself, and since that time to a great number of persons, who are indebted to the use of it for the cure of sudden bleedings, as well as confirm'd hemorrhages, which, before the discovery of this Styptic, were deem'd incurable.

Sold by the proprietor, T. Peirce, (wholesale and retail) at his house, near Billiter-square, Fenchurch-street, London, with proper instructions for application in all cases, signed with his own hand writing. The French mediators arrived at Geneva the 20th ult. and made their entry with great pomp; after which they were complimented by all the different bodies of the republic. The conferences which began soon after their arrival, will probably take up a long time before any thing is decided, seeing the multiplicity and difficulty of the point in dispute.

Some alterations will be made in the window tax. Houses that have no more than six windows, we hear, are to be exempted; from 7 to 14, to pay 2 d. per window; from 14 to 25, 3 d. and from 25 upwards, to pay 2 s. By this alteration, it's computed the tax will bring in about 50,000 l. a year more than it did upon the old plan.

From a town in the West, we hear that public thanks have been returned in the parish church for the alteration of the cyder bill.

They write from Somersetshire and Wiltshire, that the cloathing trade in those counties has not been known for many years to be so brisk as it is at present, scarcely one manufacturer in that way being now unemployed.

A bill for the better regulating the price of coals and candles is intended to be brought into parliament this session.

We are informed from the northern cyder counties, that great rejoicings are intended to be made there the 5th of July next, when the new cyder act takes place; and not only so, but the farmers declare they shall transmit to their posterity the anniversary of that day for a perpetual holiday.

We are sorry to hear, from good authority, that the present C—— of the E——r will not continue much longer in that office, tho' he is the highest favour with a great personage.

They write from Exeter, that Tuesday last, being the day set apart for the publick rejoicings on account of the repeal of the late unconstitutional cyder act, among other demonstrations of joy, at the sign of the chair in that city, a lamb was roasted whole, and the following loyal toasts were drank. 1. The King; may he always be the father of his people. 2. The queen and all the royal family; may they cultivate virtue, justice, and equity, prudence, and good practices, and every other such good morals as may conduce to the happiness of the subject. 3. Liberty, Pitt, and the present ministry. 4. Spirit to the ministry, that they may compel the French to pay off the Canada bills. 5. A firm resolution to the ministry, to make the Spaniards pay the Manilla ransom. 6. The liberty of the press; and may Wilkes soon be recalled from his exile. 7. Lord Camden. 8. The glorious four, who stood firm. 9. To all loyal hearts in Great Britain. 10. The worshipful the mayor and chamber of the city of Exon. 11. May the members of Exeter always adhere to the liberties of their country. 12. The worthy town-clerk of the city of Exeter. 13. The lord mayor, aldermen, and common council of the city of London. 14. Success to his majesty's arms by sea and land. 15. May the present ministry never be dissolved till the total demolition of Dunkirk. 16. The Rev. Mr. Aldcock.

We hear from Honiton, that they had great rejoycings there last thursday, on account of the repeal of the unequal and burthensome excise tax on cyder. The day was ushered in with ringing of bells; joy and satisfaction appear'd in the countenances of every well wisher to the freedom and liberty of his country. Sir George Yonge, their worthy member, (who has shewn so great concern for the relief of the subject from the oppression of excise laws) displayed his usual generosity on this occasion, by ordering a sheep to be roasted, and seven hogsheads of cyder to be given to the populace, to drink his majesty's health, the royal family, success to the present ministry, and all the noble patriots who have so eminently distinguished themselves in supporting the liberty, honour, and prosperity of the nation. A fine large ox was led thro' the town, attended by drums and fifes, decorated with garlands of flowers, apple branches with apples gilt and crowned with laurels. A label was painted and fixed between his horns, with this motto: The cyder act repealed, freedom restored: A grand green flag was displayed; the motto, Tonge and liberty, no cyder tax. The ox was afterwards killed, and with a great quantity of other beef distributed the next day amongst the poor housekeepers. The evening concluded with a bonfire, illuminations, and other indications of joy, on this glorious and important event.

APRIL 22.

The hon. East India company, have received advice, by the Admiral Stevens, Captain Griffin, lately arrived at Lisbon from Bengal, (from whence he sailed [illegible] October) that on Lord Clive's arrival at Bengal, which was on the third of May last, he was received with the greatest demonstrations of joy; that his lordship found every thing in great confusion, occasioned by the death of the Nabob; that he immediately went to Patna, and through his influence the Nabob's son was placed on the throne; that soon after, a treaty of peace and friendship, greatly advantageous to the company, was concluded; and that every thing being thus happily adjusted, his lordship returned to Bengal, where he had settled every thing upon the best and most permanent footing, having made a considerable reform both in the civil and military establishment of the company, which would very greatly diminish their expences. His Lordship proposes, notwithstanding the present tranquility, to remain there till next December, when, if no unforeseen accident demands his longer stay, he will embark for England.

Some accounts say, the new Nabob has agreed to allow the company 3,000,000 of rupees.

Since the above intelligence was received, seven messengers have been dispatched to Holland, and India stock has risen from 165 and half to 172 ready money, and 175 for the rescounters.

The subject of conversation in the commercial world is the plan for making the port of Dominica a free port under the following regulations, which are unanimously approved of by the West-India and North-American merchants, and will infinitely increase the consumption of our manufactures, and extend the trade and navigation of Great-Britain; the island being exceedingly well situated for supplying the French and Spaniards with all our manufactures.

1. That the importation of all foreign rum and spirits be prohibited, and that no rum or spirits be exported.

2. That all foreign West-India productions be imported in any bottom whatsoever.

3. That all wool, cotton, hides, dying woods, and drugs, be imported, duty free, and exported to GREAT-BRITAIN ONLY, under the regulations of enumerated articles.

4. That all sugars imported into Great-Britain, from Dominica, be deemed foreign, and subject to the same regulations as if imported from North-America; and to pay the French duty if consumed in Great-Britain.

5. That all sugars and molasses that may be exported for Europe (except to the south of Cape-Finisterre) be confined to be first landed in Great-Britain, and there to be bonded for exportation.

6. That no foreign European manufactures whatsoever be imported into Dominica, except from Great-Britain, and in British ships, as the same may be now lawfully imported there.

7. That all goods lawfully imported from Great-Britain, Ireland, or North-America, may, from thence be exported in any bottom whatsoever.

8. That no vessel which has taken any kind of West-India productions on board at Dominica, be permitted to go to any other British island.

9. That no vessel, from Europe, be admitted into Dominica, except from Great-Britain or Ireland.

There is a handsome medal struck and distributed, about the size of a crown-piece, on which is the head of Mr. Pitt, with his name, and for the reverse the following inscription: "The man who, "having saved the parent, pleaded with success for "her children."

APRIL 24.

We are informed that the important question which came lately under consideration, was, after many hours debate, at length determined, agreeable to the wishes of every lover of liberty, by a majority of 102.

Extract of a letter from Bengal, Sept. 28.

"Lord Clive being arrived at Bengal, directly joined the army at Illabad, and in two months returned to Bengal, having compleated his wishes without a single blow. He has established peace throughout the provinces, and reduced the whole country under the jurisdiction of the East-India company, so that they are now the sole masters of that immense territory. They are to collect all the revenues of the kingdom, and to appoint all the public officers, &c. His lordship has settled an annual salary of fifty lack, upon the Nabob, and near that sum upon the Great-Mogul; the company will receive the remainder of the revenues, amounting to between two and three millions yearly."

We hear that on Lord Clive's arrival at Delhi, the capital of the Great Mogul, he was received by that Monarch and his whole court, with the highest marks of friendship and respect; and as a testimony thereof his lordship had been presented by the Emperor with a diamond of the value of one hundred thousand pounds; that lord Clive had absolutely declined receiving any pecuniary advantages for himself, though offered him in the strongest manner. The Great Mogul has conferred on him the title of First Omir of the Empire, which is the greatest honour that can be conferred there.

It is said that a great trading company will furnish a large sum of money on very easy terms to the government.

SHERBORNE, April 23.

We hear that the inhabitants of Yeovil, on account of the repeal of the cyder-act, and the prohibition of the importation of French gloves, (gloving being the principal trade of that town) have devoted the greatest part of the last week to bell ringing and other diversions; three sheep being roasted whole on the three last days, and two vessels of cyder continually running at their market-house.

On Thursday last, at Honitop, by order and at the expence of John Duke, Esq; one of the representatives for that borough, a large ox was roasted whole in a field near the town, to which were added ten hogsheads of cyder, with all necessary ingredients. The inhabitants meeting at the market-house, about two o' clock, after having made an elegant procession round the town, marched to the field; and having regaled themselves on the beef and cyder, marched to a noble bonfire, where many loyal and grateful healths were drank. The gentlemen, after parading the town, adjourned to the Black Lion, where a cold repast was prepared, and plenty of wine and punch drank at Mr. Duke's expence.——The music, after the procession, was disposed of for the benefit of the ladies, who had a ball at the Greyhound.

We hear from Ugborough (a parish near Modbury, in Devon) that they have had great rejoycings on account of the repeal of the cyder-act. The bells rung, five bags of wheat were baked into loaves, and three hogsheads of cyder were given away to the poor, by the gentlemen and farmers of the parish.

On Wednesday the 18th, there were the greatest rejoicings in the parish of St. Buceaux, on the above occasion, ever known there. A ram was roasted whole, and many hogsheads of cyder given to the populace. The healths of Mr. Pitt, and Mr. Dowdeswell, and others who voted for and assisted in the repeal of the cyder act were drank; and the whole conducted with great spirit and decorum, by the worthy minister of the parish, Mr. Aldcock, who exerted himself greatly on the occasion.

We have the pleasure to assure our readers, and we do it with infinite satisfaction, that at ten o' clock on Friday night last such a confirmation was, without division, given of the entire ILLEGALITY of GENERAL WARRANTS, (except in some particular cases provided for by act of parliament) that none need for the future be under the least fear of being apprehended by such warrants.——It scarce need be said, that the great commoner exerted himself on this important occasion.——The security of public liberty seems to be his darling object; and there is no doubt, if Heaven prolongs his life, but he will raise such barriers to liberty, as will effectually preserve that invaluable blessing to remote ages. But it must add infinitely to the satisfaction of the public, to be informed that the present PATRIOT MINISTERS (for PATRIOTS they may truly be called) most heartily join him in this great cause. It has been an unusual thing for many years for the ministry to plead for the enlargement and security of the people's liberties: it is an almost UNHEARD OF THING for an ATTORNEY GENERAL to speak warmly on this side. How ought it then to raise the gratitude and estimation of the people to the present gentlemen in office! and how ought it to raise their love and veneration to the PATRIOT KING, who has placed power in the hands of such men! Can there be a stronger proof of his love to his people, and his regard to their rights and liberties?

The different Accounts of the Commotions in SPAIN.

LONDON April 15.

IT was yesterday reported, that letters from Madrid bro't advice of his most Catholic Majesty's having given orders, that his subjects should throw off their cloaks, and dress in the like manner as they do at Paris, which had so exasperated them, that great numbers assembled together at the palace, and desired to have an audience. His Majesty sent word he would not admit them into his presence; and if they did not immediately disperse, he would give an order to his guards to fire upon them, who refused so doing; upon which his Majesty sent for his Walloon guards, who fired upon them, and killed 76. But before they could charge the second time, the mob rushed in upon them with their spades, and killed 26 of them, and disarmed all the rest, crying out with loud huzzas, in the Spanish language, "The English for ever, and down with the French." When the letters came away they were in this situation.

It is said, that by the receipt of some letters yesterday from Spain, there is advice of a revolt which has happened at Madrid, occasioned by the imposition of some taxes, which the populace did not approve of.

APRIL 27.

It is generally reported and believed, that there has been a great popular commotion at Madrid, owing to the extreme odium in which the people held the Marquis of Squilace, the king's Italian minister. The immediate occasion of the rising of the populace, it is said, was attempting the enforcement of a law to regulate the dress of the people, which was made some time ago. And tho' his most Catholic majesty was determined to support his foreign favourite by force of arms against his native subjects, yet their desperate resolution, it is said, forced him to the desired concessions; and the Favourite was compelled to quit the kingdom for safety, with the utmost expedition. During the commotion it is reported, Lord Rochford chancing to pass by in his coach, he was saluted with the following general acclamation of Viva la Libertad.

APRIL 29.

Privats letters received yesterday from Madrid, confirm the accounts of the late riots there, and add, that the people have long entertained an aversion to the favourite Italian minister; he having rendered himself odious to them on many occasions. The demands to the king, were, first, the repeal of the edict for altering their dress: Secondly, the lessening the price of bread and oil: Thirdly, the suppression of the company which had undertaken to furnish Madrid with provisions; which demands were all complied with.

From Lisbon we are informed, that every thing is joy and satisfaction at the Marquis's disgrace, as he was looked upon as the principal brand of discord which was apprehended to flame out between the two nations.

The French are every where insulted if they appear in the streets; and the fondness for the English is carried to so extravagant an excess, that they are forced out of their houses by absolute force, and entertain'd in a most sumptuous manner at the taverns.

The Dutch ambassador had still a guard at his house, as he has been informed of a secret intention of the populace to attack it for the part he took in the escape of the marquis de Squilace.

Private letters from Madrid mention, that orders have been sent over to remove the capitation tax throughout the whole province of Mexico.

APRIL 30.

Letters in town from Spain, bring accounts of great commotions at Madrid, which are said to have taken their rise from several oppressive and disagreeable acts of the King's Italian Minister, in particular that for prohibiting the use of the cloak and broad beaver: That a young gentleman being stop'd near the palace by a centinel for not complying with this order, he attempted to stab the centinel for intercepting him, who immediately presented his musket, but did not fire. The gentleman thereupon gave a whistle, the signal agreed on, and in a few minutes some hundreds assembled, who were fired upon by the guards, and after several were killed, the rest were dispersed. They soon assembled however again, in prodigious bodies, and overpowered the guards, after an obstinate engagement, in which it is said 70 or 80 of the soldiers were killed. They then proceeded to the house of the Marquis de Squilace, who escaped out of it by a back way, having sent his carriage, with the blinds up, a contrary road, in order to deceive the populace; which stratagem taking, they followed the carriage, thinking to have met with the Minister, and coming up with it tore it to pieces. They then pulled down the Marquis's house, and afterwards pursued him to the Dutch Ambassador's, where he had taken refuge, but escaped also from thence on the appearance of the rioters. The populace being then assured by the Dutch Ambassador, that the Minister was not at his house, they went to the Royal palace, and insisted on speaking with his Majesty, which being granted, they said they had three things to propose, which if his Majesty would agree to they would disperse, and continue good subjects: The first was, that his Majesty should discharge his Italian Minister, as they were determined to be governed only by their own countrymen; that the several offensive edicts passed should be repealed; and thirdly, that his Majesty should give his royal word never after to call any person to account for what that day passed: These articles being all complied with, the rioters immediately dispersed; and in a few hours after, the city was as calm as if nothing had happened. On their return from the royal palace, they met the English Ambassador, Lord Rochford, whom they obliged to put on his cloak and beaver, which he readily complied with; and they then suffered his Lordship to pass, crying out, "No French fashions; peace with England, and war with all the world besides."

Other letters add, that the populace had made a large fire before the King's Palace, in which they consumed the bodies of all the persons killed in the late tumult there: Likewise that they hanged up three officers belonging to the Walloon guards, and insisted that his Majesty should break the said corps.

As soon as the above commotion was appeased, the King set out for Aranjuez; but the people rose again, under pretence that their fidelity was suspected. They desired the King to return to his capital; but he assured them, that he had no doubt of their loyalty, though he did not chuse to come back to Madrid 'till order and tranquility were restored. This answer was communicated to the people on the 26th ult. in the morning by the Secretary of the council of Castile. Hereupon they immediately dispersed, and every thing is now quiet.

The Marquis and the Marchioness de Squilace are gone to Carthagena, where they intend to embark with their family for Naples. The King has given the administration of the Finances to Don Miguel Mouzquize, first commissioner of that department, and secretary to the Sovereign council of war.

Madrid, April 1. The city of Toledo hath sent deputies to the King, to offer him the lives and fortunes of all the inhabitants, and to present him with 300,000 reals. The chapter of the Cathedral church of the same city, hath sent also a deputation to his Majesty, and presented him with the sum of 300,000 reals. It is probable, that all the other cities of the kingdom will follow this example: Many have already appointed deputies for this purpose; and the whole nation is eager to give the King the most striking evidences of respect, affection, and zeal.

Madrid, April 12. The marquis de Squilace, the prime minister's great crime, we hear, was an alliance of a closer nature than ever, which he was endeavouring to bring about, between our court and that of Versailles.

CHARLES-TOWN, July 7, 1766.

ON Wednesday last his Excellency the Governor was pleased to give his assent to the following acts, viz.

3. An act for raising and granting to his Majesty the sum of thirty-five thousand, five hundred and twenty-nine pounds, seventeen shillings, and one penny, and applying the sum of thirty-five thousand, six hundred and seventy-five pounds, eight shillings, and seven pence, half-penny, being the balance of several funds in the public treasury, making together the sum of seventy one thousand, two hundred and five pounds, five shillings, and eight pence half penny, to defray the charges of this government from the first day of January to the 31st day of December 1765, both days inclusive, and for other services therein mentioned.

After which the general assembly, with leave, adjourned to Tuesday the 11th of November next.

The Right Hon. Lord CHARLES GREVILLE MONTAGU, having been pleased to honour the Charles-Town Library Society with a letter, desiring to be admitted a member; his Excellency was, on Wednesday last, agreeable to the rules, balloted for, and unanimously elected a member of the said society.

We are sorry to hear, that the Wheat Planters in the back settlements, on the Western frontiers, who are not an inconsiderable number, and most of whom place their whole dependance on the raising of that grain, are very great sufferers this year, many of them losing their whole crop, by the rust.

On the other hand, those that have planted Hemp, have in general succeeded so well, that it is certain a very great quantity will be brought to market for exportation, so that this commodity promises fair to become another valuable staple.

And, there is scarce any reason to doubt, now a Filature is establishing here, under the inspection of gentlemen, who are not indifferent about what they have in charge, that, in a few years, whole Bales of Silk of our produce, will also be an article of our exports; for the whole attendance upon Silk-Worms (as we are informed) takes up but six weeks, at a time too when there is little other work for the hands employed in planting; and especially, as the bringing of the Cocoons to market will be so much easier to the Inhabitants of the remote settlements than of any other commodity, that they must find it their interest to give particular attention to that branch; besides, the Mulberry-Tree is one of the easiest cultivated of any in the province, several species of it growing spontaneously here.

'Tis not unworthy of public notice, that about 6000 pounds weight of Cocoons, which have been annually made at Purrysburg, and carried to the Filature at Savannah, have always been shipped from thence as the produce of Georgia.

Madder has lately been planted, and it is said, will produce to advantage.—In short, there are few things that may not be brought to perfection here, with a little pains and industry; for 'tis but a few years since, that scarce a good Cabbage, Turnip, Beet, Carrot, Onion or Irish Potatoe could be found in our markets; but now they are raised in such quantity and perfection, that none of the two last articles need be imported again.

The commons house of assembly, of the province of Georgia, have voted their thanks to Charles Garth, Esq; for his important services in soliciting the repeal of the stamp-act, and ordered, that the speaker acquaint him therewith by letter; desiring also that gentleman to return the thanks of the house to the duke of Grafton, earl of Shelburne, marquis of Rockingham, lords Dartmouth and Camden, secretary Conway, Mr. Pitt, col Barré, & such others as were active in procuring the repeal of that act.

A gentleman who arrived from the West-Indies a few days ago at Savannah, informs, that in the same week that the fire happened at Barbados, another broke out in Fort-Royal, in Martinico, which consumed 160 houses.

Fort Charlotte, building for the future protection and security of the western settlers, against the insults of Indians, we hear, will be compleated by the 20th instant.

Mr. Boyd and Mr. Miller, two gentlemen from Virginia, with their servants, were inhumanly murdered about seven weeks ago, in the upper Cherokee country, on Broad River, about 30 miles from fort Loudon, upon the Virginia path, as pretended, by Northern Indians; but our informant, from several circumstances, believes, that Cherokees were the perpetrators, in revenge for the murder of nine of their people, at one Anderson's barn in Virginia, about August last year.

About the same time, James Welch, a half-breed son of his, and a child, were found murdered near one of the Cherokee lower towns, supposed by the Creek Indians.

The lower-towns Cherokees have acquainted George Price, Esq; at Fort Prince George, Keshowee, that they intend to remove about twenty-one miles lower down the river towards our settlements.

The said Mr. Price, with the industrious soldiers he has there, we are informed, has put the fort under his command, into such excellent order and repair, as does him great credit. His conduct at the same time has gain'd him reputation among, and the goodwill of, the Indians.

His Majesty's Ship Tryal, commanded by James Wallace, Esq; we hear, will sail for England this week.

In our last, for "Mr. William Dering," read Mr. Cholmondeley Dering, maried to the widow Allpress, &c.

A snow has just appear'd to Leeward of the Bar, supposed to be the Duncannon Packet-Boat.

☞ Some insinuations that the printer of this paper has refused to publish a letter addressed to him, signed RUBRI TUNICATUS, oblige him thus publickly to declare, that he has only delayed the publication, with a good design, and in consequence of messages which he supposed came from the author; and that he is so far from being disinclin'd to oblige that writer, that, tho' his private opinion is, it can have no other tendency than to produce much useless and unentertaining altercation, yet it shall make its appearance in his next; with the letter sign'd JOHN-IN-THE-WOOD, and some other pieces lately received.—so as soon as there may be room.

JUNE 19th, 1766, ran away from the subscriber, on Horse Savannah, a white servant named Samuel Kennerly, about thirty years old, five feet ten inches high, has a pretty round face, much pitted with the small pox, short black hair, small blue eyes, and is remarkable for seldom or ever looking in the face of the person he speaks to: he had on, when he went away, a lapelled scarlet waistcoat laced with gold, a blue coat with a crimson velvet cape and yellow gilt buttons, a pair of leather breeches, and a half worn broad plain gold laced hat; besides which he took away with him nine shirts, tied up in a check handkercief, and covered with an old brown waistcoat.
